Understanding the Gujarati Language and Script

Before starting to learn Gujarati in 30 days, it is important to understand the language's origins, structure, and the script used for writing. Gujarati belongs to the Indo-Aryan branch of the Indo-European language family, and it has a rich literary tradition dating back centuries. The script is an abugida derived from Devanagari but has its own unique characteristics and letter forms.

The Gujarati Alphabet

The Gujarati script consists of 34 consonants and 12 vowels, plus various diacritical marks to indicate vowel sounds following consonants. Learning the script early helps with reading and writing proficiency, which are essential for comprehensive language learning.

Characteristics of Gujarati Language

Gujarati grammar has features typical to Indo-Aryan languages, including a subject-object-verb (SOV) sentence structure, postpositions instead of prepositions, and gendered nouns. Understanding these basics early will make it easier to construct sentences and comprehend conversations.
