Understanding the LEQ in AP World History

The LEQ is one of the three types of free-response questions on the AP World History exam, alongside the Document-Based Question (DBQ) and the Short Answer Questions (SAQ). It requires students to write a well-structured essay that responds to a specific prompt.

Components of the LEQ

To successfully complete the LEQ, students must focus on several key components:

1. Thesis Statement: A clear and concise argument that addresses the prompt.
2. Evidence: Relevant historical facts, examples, and evidence to support the thesis.
3. Analysis: A critical examination of the evidence and how it relates to the thesis.
4. Organization: A logical structure that guides the reader through the argument.

5. Contextualization: Placing the argument within a broader historical framework.

How to Approach the LEQ

Preparing for the LEQ involves understanding the exam format and practicing effective writing strategies. Here are some steps students can take to excel in this section of the exam:

1. Analyze the Prompt

Before writing, carefully read and break down the prompt. Identify the key terms and the specific historical themes or periods it addresses.

2. Develop a Strong Thesis

Craft a thesis statement that directly answers the prompt. A strong thesis should be debatable and provide a roadmap for your argument.

3. Gather Evidence

Collect relevant evidence from your studies that supports your thesis. This can include specific events, examples, or historical figures that illustrate your argument.

4. Organize Your Essay

Create an outline to organize your thoughts. An effective structure typically includes:

- Introduction: Introduce the topic and present your thesis.
- Body Paragraphs: Each paragraph should focus on a single point that supports your thesis, including evidence and analysis.
- Conclusion: Summarize your main points and reinforce your thesis.

5. Practice Writing

Regular practice is essential. Write sample essays based on past prompts to build your skills and confidence.
