Understanding Credit Scores

Before delving into the specifics of the Mike Roberts Credit Solution Program, it's important to understand what credit scores are and why they matter. A credit score is a numerical representation of a person's creditworthiness, derived from their credit history. It is typically calculated using several factors, including:

- Payment History: This accounts for 35% of your score and reflects whether you have paid your bills on time.
- Credit Utilization: Making up 30% of your score, this factor examines how much of your available credit you are using.
- Length of Credit History: This 15% factor considers how long your credit accounts have been active.
- Types of Credit: Comprising 10% of your score, this looks at the variety of credit accounts you have, such as credit cards, mortgages, and installment loans.
- New Credit: This factor, making up 10% of your score, takes into account how many new accounts you have opened recently.

Understanding these elements is crucial, as they form the foundation upon which the Mike Roberts Credit Solution Program builds its strategies.
