This diverse inventory makes Mikes Trading Post a one-stop-shop for outdoor enthusiasts and collectors alike, drawing visitors from near and far.

The History of Mikes Trading Post

Mikes Trading Post was established in the early 1990s by Mike Johnson, a local outdoor enthusiast with a vision to create a place where people could find quality gear and share their love for the outdoors. Over the years, the business has evolved significantly, adapting to the changing needs of its customers while maintaining its commitment to quality and service.

Early Days

In its early days, Mikes Trading Post operated out of a small storefront, offering a limited selection of camping and hunting gear. However, as word spread about the quality of the products and the personalized service provided by Mike and his staff, the business began to grow.

Expansion and Growth

Recognizing the demand, Mike expanded the store's inventory and began to include a wider range of products. This included not only outdoor gear but also a selection of antiques and collectibles that appealed to local residents. As the store's reputation grew, so did its customer base, leading to further expansions in both product offerings and physical space.
