Origins and History of the Nation of Gods and Earths Supreme Mathematics

The Nation of Gods and Earths Supreme Mathematics was created in the 1960s by Clarence 13X, a former member of the Nation of Islam who founded the Five Percent Nation. This group sought to empower African Americans through knowledge of self and spiritual enlightenment. Supreme Mathematics emerged as a unique system that assigns specific meanings to numbers from 0 to 9, using them as tools to decode the universe's mysteries and communicate complex ideas succinctly. Rooted in ancient numerology and influenced by Black nationalist ideology, Supreme Mathematics quickly became a core component of the NGE's cultural and philosophical framework. It serves not only as a teaching method but as a living language that members use daily to interpret reality and express identity.

Historical Context and Development

The development of Supreme Mathematics coincided with the social and political upheaval in the United States during the 1960s. The civil rights movement and the rise of Black nationalism created fertile ground for new cultural expressions and ideologies. Clarence 13X's departure from the Nation of Islam and the founding of the Five Percent Nation marked a significant shift toward self-reliance and intellectual empowerment within the African American community. Supreme Mathematics was designed to replace traditional teachings with a system that emphasized personal knowledge and universal laws through numeric symbolism. Over time, it has influenced various aspects of hip-hop culture, education, and social activism.

The Meaning and Symbolism of Each Number

At the heart of the Nation of Gods and Earths Supreme Mathematics is the assignment of specific concepts to each digit from 0 through 9.
