Understanding the PSPO I Exam Structure

The PSPO I certification exam is designed to evaluate a candidate's knowledge of Scrum and product ownership as defined by Scrum.org. It consists of multiple-choice and multiple-answer questions that test theoretical understanding and practical application. The exam duration is typically 60 minutes, during which candidates must answer 80 questions. A passing score requires correctly answering at least 85% of the questions, emphasizing the need for thorough preparation. Understanding the exam structure helps candidates allocate time effectively and develop strategies to approach different question types.

Exam Format and Rules

The PSPO I exam is conducted online and can be taken remotely, offering flexibility to candidates worldwide. It is an open-book exam, but the time constraint and question complexity require solid preparation rather than reliance on external resources during the test. No external help or collaboration is permitted. The exam focuses strictly on Scrum, product ownership responsibilities, and maximizing product value within agile frameworks.

Scoring and Passing Criteria

The PSPO I exam is scored automatically upon completion. Candidates must achieve a minimum passing score of 85%, which means answering correctly at least 68 out of 80 questions. Scores are final, and retakes are allowed with a waiting period and a fee for each attempt.
