Employment Policies and Procedures

The employment policies and procedures section of the Raising Cane's employee handbook outlines the fundamental rules governing the hiring process, employment status, and termination protocols. This section ensures that all employees understand the terms and conditions of their employment from the outset. It addresses critical topics such as equal employment opportunity, background checks, probationary periods, and the classification of employees as full-time, part-time, or temporary.

Hiring and Onboarding Process

Raising Cane's employs a structured hiring and onboarding process designed to integrate new employees efficiently into the team. The handbook specifies necessary documentation, orientation schedules, and initial training requirements. New hires are introduced to company culture, policies, and expectations through this process to foster a smooth transition.

Employment Classification

Employees at Raising Cane's are classified according to their work hours and job functions. The handbook details distinctions between hourly and salaried employees, exempt and non-exempt status, and eligibility for overtime pay. Understanding these classifications helps employees recognize their rights and compensation structures.

Termination and Resignation Procedures

The handbook also provides guidelines on voluntary and involuntary termination. Procedures for resignation include notice periods and exit interviews, while termination policies cover grounds for dismissal, disciplinary actions, and final paycheck distribution. These protocols aim to maintain fairness and transparency throughout the employment lifecycle.

Workplace Conduct and Expectations

Maintaining a professional and respectful workplace is a priority emphasized throughout the Raising Cane's employee handbook. This section outlines standards for employee behavior, appearance, communication, and teamwork to ensure a positive environment for both staff and customers.

Code of Conduct

The code of conduct defines acceptable behavior in the workplace, prohibiting discrimination, harassment, and unethical activities. Employees are expected to uphold integrity, respect diversity, and contribute to a collaborative atmosphere.

Dress Code and Personal Hygiene

Raising Cane's enforces a dress code that aligns with brand image and safety requirements. The handbook details uniform standards, grooming expectations, and guidelines for personal hygiene to promote a clean and professional appearance.

Attendance and Punctuality

Regular attendance and punctuality are critical for operational efficiency. The handbook specifies attendance policies, procedures for reporting absences, and consequences for excessive tardiness or absenteeism. These guidelines help ensure reliable staffing levels and minimize disruptions.
