Ingredients

To make approximately 2 cups of fromage blanc, you will need:

- 1 gallon of whole milk (preferably organic)
- 1/4 teaspoon mesophilic starter culture (such as MA4001 or MA4002)
- 1/4 teaspoon liquid rennet (or 1/4 tablet rennet, dissolved in 1/4 cup of cool, chlorine-free water)
- Salt to taste (about 1 teaspoon)

Equipment Needed

Before starting, ensure you have the following equipment:

- Large stainless steel pot
- Thermometer
- Slotted spoon
- Cheesecloth or fine mesh strainer
- Colander
- Large bowl for draining
- Whisk
- Storage container

Step-by-Step Instructions

Follow these steps to create your own fromage blanc:

1. Prepare the Milk: Pour the gallon of whole milk into the large stainless steel pot and slowly heat it over low-medium heat. Use a thermometer to monitor the temperature. Heat the milk to about 85°F (29°C).
2. Add the Culture: Once the milk reaches the desired temperature, remove it from the heat. Sprinkle the mesophilic starter culture over the surface of the milk and let it sit for about 5 minutes to rehydrate. Gently whisk the culture into the milk.
3. Add Rennet: Dilute the rennet in the cool water and add it to the milk mixture. Stir gently for about 30 seconds, then stop stirring. Cover the pot with a lid and let it sit undisturbed for 12 to 24 hours at room temperature, or until it achieves a gel-like consistency.
4. Cut the Curd: Once the curd has formed, use a knife to cut it into 1-inch cubes. Let it sit for 5-10 minutes to allow the curds to firm up.
5. Heat the Curds: Slowly heat the curds to 105°F (40°C) over low heat, stirring gently. This should take about 20-30 minutes. Once the desired temperature is reached, maintain it for another 30 minutes.
6. Drain the Curds: Line a colander with cheesecloth and place it over a large bowl. Carefully ladle the curds into the colander and let them drain for about 1-2 hours, depending on how firm you want your fromage blanc.
7. Season and Store: Once drained, transfer the curds to a mixing bowl. Add salt to taste and mix until well incorporated. Store your fromage blanc in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to one week.
